Flavor solutions since 1910

What do you see on the shelves when you're grocery shopping? You saw all kinds of fruits and vegetables, meats, and a whole lot of processed food items. Many of those items are brought to you by Grand Products. We cater to the food industry, distributing everything from Anchovies to Zucchini Bread.

Most foods are processed – changed, prepared or packaged – in some way before they are put on store shelves. They fall on a spectrum from minimally processed (like salad mix, bagged dry beans, roasted nuts or frozen fruits and vegetables) to highly processed (like ready-to-eat meals and snack foods).

You might think the term "processed food" carries a negative connotation, but many foods are processed to improve or fortify their health benefits and overall nutritional value. Certain bread products and granolas are fortified with fiber or riboflavin, for instance. Milk, juices, drinks and yogurts often get a boost of calcium or vitamins that have a positive impact on health.

We combine unmatched expertise and highly competitive prices with advanced manufacturing and logistics capabilities. Our customers rely on us for a full range of natural and organic finished products. They also rely on us for quality. At Grand Products, food quality is always top of mind.
